16/ in Omaha rather than in Florence or Bellevue. The citizens of Bellevue naturally were enraged when the Nebraska Territorial Legislator then living in Glenwod

Iowa voted to have the capitol built in Omaha rather than at Bellevue, which was certainly closer to Glenwood, Iowa than was Omaha. After all, hadn't the people of Bellevue been having their weekly newspaper printed in Iowa and giving the Iowans other valuable business? There were no Mormon mayors left to mediate this serious matter, but no shots were fired and the next election undoubtedly ended the term of the non-resident legislator.
